森

The image shows the seal script for the Chinese character 森 (sēn), meaning forest. It is composed of three vertical strokes, each representing a tree, arranged side-by-side. The top of each tree is connected by a horizontal bar, and the bottom of each tree is connected by another horizontal bar, creating a dense, symmetrical structure.

錫

The image shows the seal script for the Chinese character 錫 (xī), meaning tin. It is composed of two parts: a vertical stroke on the left representing the metal radical 钅 (yīn), and a vertical stroke on the right representing the radical 白 (bái), which is a variant of the character 日 (sun). The two parts are joined together to form the character 錫.
